Our Beautiful Cats Need Your Help

Paws for Life is run entirely by dedicated volunteers, helps hundreds of abandoned, unwanted and mistreated cats. We will never turn away a cat in need or at risk, and specialise in elderly, disabled and FIV+ve cats. We will neuter any unneutered cat and ensure that it is micro-chipped and vaccinated before it goes to its new home. If we have no space, then we will put a picture and details on our website whilst waiting for a place to become available. This often leads to the cat being rehomed directly from the owner. We keep in touch with the new owners to ensure the cat is enjoying life with them and will take them back if circumstances change. Once a Paws for Life cat, always a Paws for Life cat.

Bertie arrived on our doorstep in a neglectful state of starvation and flea anaemia. He is now enjoying life with his new family.

We are constantly trying to raise money to help pay for vet bills which can be very expensive and put people off taking on an older cat or a cat that needs medication.

Preston's owner didn't care much about him and kept him confined in a small area. He was attacked by a dog who severed his leg but instead of having his leg reattached they had it removed as it was cheaper. Preston is now in the purrfect retirement home he can live out his days in comfort and with lots of love.

A Legacy or Bequest

A legacy or bequest will provide crucial funds – we could not carry out our work without such generous support. If you are making a WILL, please remember Paws for Life. If you would like to help us continue helping these lovely cats, we would respectfully suggest that your legacy wording reads:

I give [the sum of £] or [per cent of my residuary estate] to Paws for Life Cat Rescue for its general purposes and I declare that the receipt of the current person in charge of running Paws for Life for the time being shall be a full and sufficient discharge for the said legacy.

BAZ the Bengal was born in 2003. He was used for shows and stud but at 6 years of age his usefulness had ended so the breeder sold him off. He was paired with another stud and they were sold together. It soon became apparent to the new owner that Baz was being badly bullied and would not defend himself. He also suffers from fits and is slightly brain damaged. The owner tried to contact the breeder on numerous occasions but with no luck. Baz is now in a Paws for Life home where he won't be bullied.
